PROFILE

Highly motivated and proactive 3rd year Computer Science student, eager to learn and contribute in a tech-leading company. Collaboration is a key value for me, and based on my experience of working in a development team it is an important part of the environment I would like to work in. I am a quick and independent learner who is always excited about learning new technologies and getting better as a programmer. The skills I acquired in the past couple of years include:

- Web development including PHP and JS, independently studying React
- OOP with Java and C#, independently studying Spring and Python
- Worked with Github and collaborated with other developers
- Worked as a part of a development team
